Letter From the President

Time is passing by so quickly it's hard to keep up. The Waltonian's again hosted our state target on June 7th . We were almost to capacity, it looks like next year we will need to be taking advanced registration. Also next year we will be shooting a 900 round as a result of the membership vote. There were several new members signed up at state target and it looks like we will continue to grow every year.

With the loss of the Hitaga Archery Club the Trail Shoot has been put on hold for this year. The shoot will still be on the bid contracts for 2016 but we will not be using state targets. I am hoping that in the future when it becomes feasible we can reintroduce the marked distance trail shoot.

We have received a message (below) from Dave Arneson of Mason City, letting the ISAA Scholarship Committee know that his step-son AJ Appel, who was the first ISAA scholarship recipient, has graduated from college and they are very appreciative. Thank Dave for your letter and congratulations to AJ and his success!

Dear ISAA,

We just wanted to let you know that the first recipient of the ISAA scholarship, my stepson AJ Appel, has graduated with his Doctorate of Pharmacy from South Dakota State University. He is now working as a Pharmacist at Walgreens in Sioux City. The scholarship was a big boost for him while attending college and was greatly appreciated. We hope the ISAA is able to continue helping young college prospects reach their dreams and goals in this way. Please feel free to pass this on to those that have helped or are currently involved with this scholarship.

Thank you, Dave Arneson

Our "Archery Club"

By Amber Witt, ISAA Junior Editor

Archery Club started with a couple of friends who knew I shot and requested that I teach them. So, last year I invited 5 friends to come every Wednesday to my house.. We met from 2:30-4:30 from the months of May to August. During that time, my Grandpa, Terry Witt, and I taught them how to shoot. This was only the beginning. This year we decided to do it again, having 14 kids shooting on Wednesdays. My younger sister, Paige, also invited some friends. We explain the basics such as, shooting safely, knocking the arrow correctly, and acquiring an anchor point. Most of the kids shoot fingers, but a couple girls use releases. We begin shooting at five yards on big targets. Then slowly throughout the summer we move back. Usually, we go no farther than twenty yards. We mostly use paper targets, but sometimes balloons and 3D targets. Our main goal with this Club is to provide the kids with an interest in archery, hoping they will keep shooting. We intend to continue this Club next year.

From the Editor..

The ISAA Field Shoot is coming up fast, so get your thermo cells, Absorbine Jr., Avon Vanilla Sugar spray, and DEET ready (Absorbine Jr. works magic if you get into Nettles/itch weed!!)

I have my new bow all set up to go, thanks to John Carlson! I bought a Hoyt Freestyle – the longest axle to axle I have ever shot and no more shoulder or lower back pain. I was set to quit shooting all together, but thought I would just try this "pole vault" length bow and it has helped immensely! I'm getting nice groups the more I shoot and get use to the length of the bow1

The ISAA has many new members and there are three pages of pictures & names of several new people. The goal is to get everyone's photo in the Arrow Hound with their name. It will be a challenge for me and my new helper, Amber Witt, Jr. Editor, who has asked to help and I love her enthusiasm. Look for articles throughout each Arrow Hound completed by Amber. She will be a great help!

The Iowa Trail Shoot has been tabled until 2016. There are many ideas floating around but no final decisions. One thought that came up is the Iowa Trail Shoot to do a take-off from Hitaga's Archery Triathlon and have 1/3 of the Trail Shoot be 3-D, 1/3 be Field, and 1/3 be the outdoor Fita Target. Your input will be welcomed on the Iowa State Archery Assoiation Facebook page!

Have a wonderful summer!

Fellowship of Robin Hood

JOE VEITH is 11 years old (now 19), and lives in Davenport. Joe shot his first ISAA tournament at Archery Field and Sport in Altoona on March 11th, 2006. He shot very well and ended up shooting a "Robin Hood". If you aren't quite certain what a "Robin Hood" is, read Joe's certificate below and it will explain how the award is earned. Joe also received the Robin Hood patch that is shown to the right of his certificate. The shot was witnessed by several people at the tournament and his mom actually caught it on video. It was an exciting day for Joe and his mom, dad, and sister! Good Shooting Joe!

President Ken Sharp called the meeting to order at approximately 9:05 am.

Past Meeting Minutes: A motion was made to approve minutes from the 2014 Fall meeting by Tommy Thompson. Seconded by Barb Sharp. Motion carried with a majority vote.

Treasurer: Bob S. devised and distributed the final ending financial report. We showed a loss of about $2800 not including the ProAm. A major contributing factor includes an $800 loss from the Arrowhound for postage and handling. A motion was made to accept last years financial report by Gary Kostka and seconded by Warren Rush. The motion carried with a majority vote.

The new year report, 10-1-14 to 9-30-15, showed that with donations to charity the account was almost balanced out what was received from the DNR Tag. Scholarship of $1000 was paid. We currently have 270 members.The projected profit for this year is $3300.

20 Pin/ Historian and Hall of Fame: Pat B. reports no changes

Arrowhound Editor: Barb S, requested that all information from the Arrowhound be placed on the ISAA website to eliminate future costs. All past issues could be archived and each club and charter could be linked from the website. This would also allow pictures from ISAA shoots to be placed on the website immediately. No further discussion was made at this time.

Trail Shoot: It was discussed that originally the Trail Shoot was to model the shoot in Redding. However, with Hitaga dismantling we purchased $1152 in vitals and have no animals to put them in.

Gary K. reported that the 2014 Trail Shoot had 122 shooters, taking in $2740. Pay out was $1764.50 leaving a $993.50 profit. We broke even after repairs were made. The checking account balance is $3486.92 including $8.48 bad check from the Iowa ProAm. It was determined that the Trail Shoot checkbook is the parent checkbook for the Iowa ProAm account.

Gary K. reported that we have enough Trail Shoot Pins and scorecards to refrain from purchasing more this year.

There were two bids received for the 2015 Trail Shoot from Waverly Archers and Border Brigade and a presentation made by Warren R.

Waverly Archers bid $5/ Adults, $3 Youth/Cubs, $3 NASP, and $12.50 Families. All targets would be furnished by the ISAA and ISAA woukld do all registrations. Primitive Camping was offered.

Border Brigade offered primitive and modern camping, information to local hotels, 40 target 3D range with unlimited parking, permanent restrooms, cabins available to rent, restaurants, shelter at the range with food service. They would do their own registration. $6/Adults, $4 Youth/Cubs, $11/ Family. Targets would be provided by the ISAA and there would be a shootback fee of $10.

Warren proposed that the ISAA would retain the Trail Shoot and hold it at the Hickory Ridge Outdoor Range at Red Rock. The State would like us to use it and they would like to add a Field Shoot. Warren proposed that in order to make this a profitable shoot we could charge $20/ adults, $10 Youth/Cubs and $50/ Family and raise the cost to $60 for money open and BHFS classes.

There was a discussion over the legalities of the ISAA retaining the shoot and Gary K. feels we would be undercutting the clubs by bidding on our own shoot. John C. stated that the Trail Shoot has never been a bid shoot as it was given to Hitaga and they have now dismantled.

We currently have 43 targets of which 8 do not need rebuilt. Warren R. is storing the targets.

Both clubs agreed to take over the Trail Shoot and use their own targets with the 8 we have now.

Gary K. made a motion to table the discussion to allow both clubs to redo their bids and turn into Ken within one week. Jan K. seconded the motion. Motion dies.

A motion was made to table the Trail Shoot discussion for 1 year was made by Tommy T. seconded by Warren R. 8 ayes, 7 opposed. Motion carried.

Gary K. made a motion that the ISAA has a right to bid on any shoot. Seconded by Warren R. Vote was carried out by secret ballot. 7 Ayes 8 Opposed. Motion Fails

Tommy T. made a motion to allow the State to bid on the Trail Shoot only. Motion revised by Tommy T. to allow the clubs to bid or the ISAA to run the Trail Shoot. Motion was rescinded by Tommy T.

Barb S. made a motion to allow the ISAA to bid on the Trail Shoot only, along with the clubs. The motion was seconded by John C. Motion passed with 10 Ayes and 6 Opposed.

ProAm

It was discussed that the webpage and registration needs to be rewritten to allow the usage of smart phones and tablets. As the webpage is being rewritten, more space will be given to the title sponsor. The current system only allows a single person to use data entry and we need three people to have data entry access. To help with sorting, money shooters will be given color coded cards. Don P. stated coding will begin in May and changes will be noticed by July.

Recessed for lunch at 12:00

Meeting called into order at 12:30 by Ken S.

Ken S. stated we have a contract for HyVee Hall C for January 6-8th 2017 but we only have a first right of refusal for 2016 until caucuses set a date.

Warren R. made a motion to purchase ten new Morrell Targets. 2nded by Tommy T. Motion passed 1099's will be issued for anyone making over $600 and we will need to pay state sales tax on raffle tickets sold. Tickets may only be sold within a fourteen day period including the date of the raffle.

Sponsorship packets are available from Ken and Barb S. for anyone interested in sponsoring the ProAm.

Scholarships

Jan K. stated that four individuals shared the $1000 scholarship this year. Those included are Molly Veith, Tymbrie Snoble, Zach Bisinger and Hunter Tuves. John S. made a motion to allow students to continue to apply for scholarships until they have reached the $1000 cap. Motion seconded by Gary K. Motion passed with a majority vote. Warren R. and John C. agreed to explore options for our scholarship fund as it currently is only earning 0.61%.

John S. made a motion to purchase a new printer for the secretary and it will also be used at the ProAm. Motion seconded by Warren R. Motion passed with a majority vote.

A motion was made to adjourn the meeting by Gary K. Seconded by Warren. Motion passed with a majority vote

ASAP
The After School Archery Program (ASAP) is a partnership program between USA Archery, National Field Archery Association, Easton Foundations, the Archery Trade Association, and the Archery Shooters Association.
ASAP (After School Archery Program) was first conceived by the National Field Archery Association (NFAA) to serve as a next-step youth activity for all the youth in the USA who wanted more than just a first-peek at this fun sport. As the program was developed, other leading archery associations joined forces to create a complete activity that helps new archers gain confidence and experience in a wide variety of archery styles. USA Archery manages the program on behalf of these partners.
For additional information, please visit the ASAP website.

Liability Insurance
The National Field Archery Association offers liability insurance to NFAA chartered clubs and pro shops through Sadler & Company at a discounted rate. NFAA memberships include individual limited liability for NFAA bowhunters. See details at www.sadlersports.com.

Awards Programs

Non-Judgmental Aiming

Written by Jim Hunt

As one progresses through his or her archery career, they must come to terms with what I call Judgmental Aiming. This process needs to be corrected before one is to achieve any real proficiency in archery. The difficulty is that you may aim day to day, or even shot to shot, but the consistent performance even under stress is what we are looking for. Often an archer is drawn to reference their pin as it moves around the target, noting its movement, but fails to lock on to 100% focus on their pin and aim.

In aiming there are two schools of thought on how to properly aim. The first schools state that you concentrate on the middle and let your pin float in, OR you concentrate on your pin, think center, and come through your arrow. Some of these problems arise more pronounced in certain targets, say a Vegas face as opposed to a five spot face, because one has a center reference, the X, the other does not. You've heard guys say I can't shoot a Vegas face to save my life or I just wander around in the yellow or shoot at a hole in the yellow. You can also see this in a shot/tournament as your scoring plummets as the emphasis is increased. The last would be you know exactly where your pin is in reference to the target when the shot breaks, reinforcing the focus on the target and a general idea of where your pin is in relation to the center, but losing the pin's exact location. At times this can result from tuning, and wanting to watch the bow's movement, but this must be attended to so it is not continued.

The "concentrate on the center school" is wrong because of several reasons. The first would be that you cannot do two things at the same time. The result of concentrating on the center is that you move your pin off, as it blocks the center. Then you see a lot of pin movement, as you force in, your subconscious forces out. This makes you anxious, moving your focus to your pin's movement and how it is moving in relation to the target. This created more anxiety and the downward spiral in the frustration with your shooting, because you cannot hold still. Remember that important tournament you were ready for. You'd been shooting good scores, but tournament day came, and because the arrows were important you made sure of where your pin was. At that point in time you stopped aiming, started referencing your pin to the middle, saw a lot of movement and because your eyes focus slowly (slower the older you get starting in the early 40's) you lose track of your pins location and you see those mystery impacts, leaving you wondering how'd that get there.

The "focus on the pin school" states that you focus your attention on the pin, think center, focus on the movement, slow it down, and execute the arrow. This is where the "non-judgmental aiming" comes from as you think center, and cannot reference/judge the where of your pin is just continue to think center. When I'm focusing well, I can tell you that with the lighting, the pin's glow is missing a slice at 10 o'clock say, or there is a fait ring around the pin, but the X-ring would be fuzzy. I'm also aware that my pin was slowly moving but solidly in the center.

Here are some drills you can try in practice to see if you're referencing your pin or indeed aiming. The first is done at twenty yards or so and it requires you to shoot arrows then move your sight say 10-20 clicks up/down, and left/right to see the consistency in the impacts. If the impacts are not consistent, you are referencing, and not watching your pin. Another exercise I use is shooting spots, either 1" dots at twenty or 4" dots at sixty, and look for grouping, plus work on consistent execution, bring my pin to bear, making sure I've acquired it at 12 o'clock, and am focusing on it as I relax into the dot.

Hope this helps. I understand this reads rather rough, but it's a difficult subject.

What Does The Replay Say…..

Written by Jim Hunt

Just like in the NFL, often we must refer to the "replay" of our shot to help identify the problem areas that are happening during our shot sequence. Let's look at some common telltale traits that often show up on a shot problem.

The first would be the hand wind milling off the face as the arrow is released. This problem is the result of incorrectly loading the bicep muscle during the draw, and not loading the back rhomboid muscle. By doing this, the alinement is incorrect, and the shot is activated by contracting the bi-cep. To correct this one must draw the bow to or slightly below the collar bone to force the rhomboid muscle into action, then pay attention to keep it loaded as you raise your arm to a position directly behind the arrow. If one loses the contraction in the rhomboid, one must let down and restart the shot. When properly done, the shot can be activated by contracting the back muscles. As the shot is activated one can diagnose if the shot was correct by the reaction of the draw hand dragging off your right shoulder (right handed shooter).

Problem two is somewhat the opposite, in that the draw hand stays in close proximity of the face upon activating the shot (or the release of the string for finger shooters). I refer to this as shooting the bow, and can greatly affect your shooting as it often leads to other more serious shooting problems as snap shooting. Since the act of shooting the bow is a dynamic sequence of muscle activity, the act of a dead release indicates the lack of expansion resulting in varied ignition points, and poor shot consistency. Practicing one's release on a blank bale can help this. Finger shooters can find shooting through papers a great, instant feedback technique to get to a great release.

Problem three is the bow driving forward at the shot. Dee Wilde always said that the bow arm needs to be dead, and not pushing at all. I fought him on this, but on my shooting journey he has been correct. Pushing on your bow effects getting to your anchor, thus varying the start point. It will also affect the bow's travel as the shot breaks, as it radius off to the right, if you're out at your maximum length, or have forced the bow up after settling low on your pre-shot.

Hope some of this might solve some of your shooting troubles. As always, I'm available to help you through these rough spots. Remember it's easier to never start this, or catch them early, so build a good foundation to your shot.
